Established in 1855. Regular Line of PACKET SHIPS between Liverpool and Louisville, saling from Livnouth, and they respectfully ask the patronage of the Importers of Louisville for their ships.

The ships will be of the first class and commanded by masters experienced in the trade, and particular attention will be paid to the execut stowage and handline of the cargo. The subscribers trust that by adopting a moderate action of prices for freight, and insuring regularity in the calling of the sbips, they will merit the patronage of the importers of Lonisville, who are invited to direct the shippers of their goods in Eucland to give the preference to the line of packets established by us.

Full particulars will be given by Messrs. CAMMACK & CONVEIRS, of New Orleads, our Ascatic at that place.

The dis arcs from each other was such as that three other chairs might have been placed between any two of them. An officer of the court brought in up through the clowd of speciators, and placed Sr John so as to stand between the Kieg and Miderne Adelaide, and me between the Queen and Miderne Adelaide, and me between the Queen and Miderne Adelaide, and me between the Queen and Miderney; and did no too the horor of taking some rotice of ine. That's easying enough; for I would not have you think me so much pleased with this King and Queen as to have a less regard than I used to kare for ours. No Fretchman shall go he yourd me in thinking any own King and Queen the very beal in the world, and the most smiddle.

The civilities we everywhere receive give its the strongest impressions of French politicaess. If seems to be a pint actified here miversally, that etrangers are to be treated with respect; and one has just the traine deference shown to one here, by being a lady. The Casten house officers at Port St. Deonis, as we entered Paris, were about to seize two dezen of excellant Bordeanx wine, given us at B ulogue, and when we hrought with m; but as soon as they found we were strangers, it was immediately remitted to us on that account.

Why don't we practice this inhanity to Frenchmen? Why should they be allowed to outdo us in anything?

Traveling is one way of lengthening lives, at least in appearance. It is only a fortnight since I left London, but I the variety of scenes we have gone through makes it seem equal to six months in one place. Perhaps I have suffered a greater change, too, ia my own person than I could have done in six years at home. I had not been here six days before my tailor and peruquier had Iransformed me into a Frenchman. Only think what a figure I make in a little hag-wig and naked cars.

They fold me I had by come twenty years younger,

BERNADOTE IN LOVE—At the period when the States of Grecoble assembled at the Chatean de Vizille, were preparing the revolution of 1789, Bernadotte, then a aergeant, was quartered in that town. Links dreaming of this future eminence, he passed his time between his military dunes, in carda, and gallantry. He had obtained considership the fatter art, and ande it a point of honor to smain it. An opportunity presented itself on the fumous day at "the tiles." On that day, as is well known, the women of Greroble, mounted an the roofs of their houses, assayled the royal troops with a shower of ties. Bernadotte, being engaged with his regiment in lie tertuisiers, was struck on tha head by one af these projectiles, and fell. He was at first thought to be dead, but, matterling rome stmotoms of life, he was canveyed to a neighboring cofe, and laid upon a table, which is still preserved and shown. He was not, however, destined to the fate of Pyrrbus. By degrees be began to recover, and opening his eyee, eaw unnug the crowd who were tendering assistance, a fair young girl, whose bright blue eyes were suffused with tears and whose emolian was manifested at the pair he appeared to suffer. He raised himself better, be called for a glass of brandy, and rejicial distreptiment. After a little time, lind up himself better, be called for a glass of brandy, and rejicial distreptiment. After a little time, lind up himself better, be called for a glass of brandy, and rejical distreptiment. The results are reported kacwa. For three weeks be continued his romantic scarch, when, one day, while pensively walking in the Jardiu de Ville, he eaw her appronching. He watched her home, and, returning the next day, found the means of obtaining access to her house, and declaring his love. The girl was uamed Amelie; she was a dress-maker, and about eighteen years of age; but Ibere was a rival in the field—a yaung watch-maker of the lown. Not knowing how to dispose of him, and, moreover, being violently in love, Bernadotte speke of marriage, thinking by that means to overcome all dilliculties. But he

She preferred a shop to the havereack, and hocame the fience the watchmaker. When Bornadotte heard her sion, his fury know to bounds. He rushed his rival to decide the question, by the sword. The watchmaker was nothing loth, and the parties met. The citizen, little accustomed to the use of the weapen, was soon esverely wourded, and Bernadotte hasteradio the house of his mistress. He had been there but a few miautes, and had even forgotlen the eccurrence which had just taken place, when a loud knocking was heard of the door. It was the wonnded lover of Amelie, brought thither apparently in a dying state. She was overwhelmed with grief and horror, and, turning to Bernadotte, loaded him with the severest represendes, and drove his rival to decide the question, by the sword. THEATER.-The firswell benefit of Mrs. and Miss Farren, and their last appearance but one, is degrees above zero, but during the day it moderated and announced for this evening. Despite the intensely cold weather, this ongagement has been quite enc cessful, and they have dering the fertnight preduced a series of dslightful and novel entertainduced a series of delightful and novel entertain-tainments. This evening an entirely new play, ex-by the ice end shipped a little water. She discharged a titled Love's Vecom, will be acted, in which Mise portion of her cargo in Green river in order to lighten her Farny Fitz Farren performes the unfortunete Lady Jane Grey, Mrs. Farren the Princess Mary, and Mr. Elmore Lord Cultford Dudley. The histrionic era embraced in the lives of these personeges is full of dramatic incidents. Miss Faony will also append in a thres-act comedy, truncated to three acts from one of the old eterling pieces of the old rchool' under the title of the Y. ung Heirses, performing the part of Albina Mandeville. Mr. Lorton hes a fine part in Sir Solomon Cyrie, which Le will play well, and Mr. Elmore, as Howard, can tell us all about the Pontine marshes Let our favorites have da n full and appreciativa audietce. Mlss Lizzie P. Kirk ass sdapted for the plane a heautiful German eir, "S.umberlied," which we presume means the Dream Song. Miss Kick has given much expression to the charming air and arranged it as an excellent study for her pupils, ta one of whom it is uffectionately dedicated. There is a grace and appreciative taste in all this lady's adoptetions and compositions which render them universal favorites. Messrs. D. P. Faulds & Co have published the S'umberlied in their usual nnexceptionable style, much of which seems due lo

The Science of Skatino.—We have become, in the present practical age; great in small things, from the fabrication of a pin to the construction of a steamship. The humble skete, wilf which our youth enjoy themselves in the clear, cold days of winter—gliding, with lighting foot, upon lake, pond, and river—has not been vertooked in the march of improvement.

The Holland skate, with the runner secured in a choe-upper, appears to be growing in popular favor; and certainly our old-fashined skates have far too many troublesone straps about hem. The runner, which is coming into more general near, is devoted in a groove on the face, and skaters assert that they can "go much faster with it," but cannot turn as rapidly. The old curled-imp point is also losing to more general near the present provides of the control of the provides of the pr COURTING IN COLD WEATHER -Everyled dereabout knows that it was hiting e ld last Wed Mr. H. These cid-fashioned skale-runners were made of the shank tones of oxen, and were highly poliched. They are cometimes dug up now in the vicinity of London, and afford o neefal lesson in regard to the progress we have made in making skates. A steal runner of a ckals, such ac that which now costeouly a few cents, could not be then obtained in famous London "for love or money."

All the youth in our land should learn to eksted—every bey and girl without the domains of icedom. In several of the ciries and villages of the Hudeon river very many of the ladies are excellent shates, and we are farmed in a great number of places. This movement is a sensible one, and deserves all praise; no winter exercise is more healthful. In Holland all the Dutch lasses appear to skete as a naturally as ducks take to water. Hundreds of them may be seen every muning in winter aweeping on their skates along their freeze canala to matket, with backets upon their heade, which they manage to balance standily, while they move as grace the Lindon masons, carpenters, citedayers, plusteters, and painlers.

Frighty to their NEW SCALE Plans of Frierre, just introduced. The growing desire for a Square Plans Forte that shall approach the Grand in volume of sound, and, at the same time, avoid the nacainly appearance of that three-cornered instrument, directed our energies to the production of such a desideratum. Our toil is rewarded and we should the result with unitear of competition.

10 Our Planos are all guarantied to give entire satisfaction, whether ordered from us direct or soid by any of our seems throughout the country; and we solicit a continuace of that pairouage which we have (a) overlifer the last twenty-live years.
